FOREWORD

The District Local Plan is a roadmap with an intention to deal with one of the evils within our community that is Gender Based Violence. As many of you are aware, this is one way of how human rights are violated and it has been manifested in many ways that promote gender prejudice thus undermining economic development and human dignity.

Bushenyi district wishes to move and identify itself with other civilized communities that look at Gender Based Violence as an un-acceptable practice and should be eradicated in our society.

Against such, it has been found that a Local Action Plan is designed and agreed upon to align us with modern times in the fight against GBV. Bushenyi must do all it takes to eliminate Gender Based Violence.

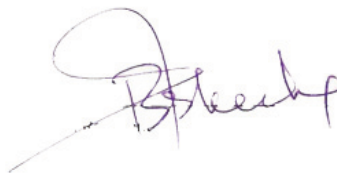

Sometimes when Gender Based violence is talked about, the immediate interpretation is that it is violence against women and girls but men and boys have been victims too. However, it must be noted that much as men and boys may be victims, there are other vulnerable members of the society that are hit most and therefore the need to eliminate this vice. We need to tap into the potential we have as a district to open opportunities for the vulnerable members of our society to be able to benefit and contribute towards the development of our society without any encumbrances. This will translate into an equal and fair society.

I wish to salute the partners who supported us to make this work a reality. Our eternal appreciation goes to CEWIGO and MGLSD for this achievement.

I also extend my thanks to the District Local Action Plan Taskforce that worked tirelessly to make the plan a reality.

In conclusion, as a District commitment to promote human rights, I appeal to all people in Bushenyi and Uganda as a whole, to welcome and implement the action plan and make Gender Based Violence history in our district. The District shall ensure that GBV is addressed right from all the communities and support the necessary bodies implementing the GBV action plan as a necessary obligation.

FOR GOD AND MY COUNTRY

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Bushenyi District Local Action Plan aims at nurturing an environment that makes Bushenyi a GBV free district since GBV is a serious problem in the District. The action plan outlines the district objectives, with strategies and quantifiable activities.

Chapter one presents an overview of Bushenyi District and the background to the development of the District Local Action Plan (LAP) to address gender based violence and the methodology followed. It also articulates the different forms and causes of GBV in the district arguing that the most reported forms are sexual, physical and social economic forms of violence.

The second chapter presents a contextual analysis of GBV in Bushenyi District and shows why violence against women is the most pervasive yet least recognized human rights violation in the world. The chapter defines gender-based violence as violence that is directed at an individual based on his or her biological sex, gender identity, or perceived adherence to socially defined norms of masculinity and femininity. It explains GBV as a global pandemic that is inflicted upon men, women and children with women and girls being the most at risk and most affected by gender-based violence. The chapter highlights the causes of Gender Based Violence as household poverty, negative attitudes towards women, unbalanced power relations between men and women, unequal access to ownership and control of resources, cultural beliefs, and illiteracy, among others. The chapter also presents the legal and policy framework in Uganda and other frameworks that provide for the protection of women and girls against GBV and ends with the list of different partners in the district.

Chapter One: Background to the Local Action Plan

The Process

The development of the 3 year LAP followed a memorandum of understanding (MoU) signed between CEWIGO and Bushenyi District Local Government. The action plan was developed in a participatory effort that involved the participation of all stakeholders. It began with a two-day capacity building and sensitization workshop organized by CEWIGO that targeted political and administrative leaders at different levels and representatives of Civil Society Organisations (CSOs) working in the district. During this meeting, a Taskforce to draft the Local Action Plan was selected. In another two day workshop the Task Force was trained in the development of the LAP. Members of the Taskforce followed up the training with several meetings as they drafted the LAP. The draft was then validated by key stakeholders in a Town Hall meeting, who made further input in the draft. The draft was improved and edited for translation and production.

Scope of Direction

The Local Action Plan (LAP) is the strategic framework for guiding Bushenyi in efforts to eradicate gender based violence. The LAP guides the district and CSO programs at all levels of implementation including the district and sub-county levels. This LAP aims at the reduction of gender based violence by at least 30% in Bushenyi by 2016

District Mission

The mission of Bushenyi district is to provide quality service through a coordinated delivery system, focusing on the national and local priorities (include the one that was up graded and approved by the district council)

District Vision

Bushenyi District Local Government envisions a prosperous population accessing quality services and harnessing natural resources in a sustainable manner.

District Goal

The overall goal of the District is improved service delivery for the socio-economic development of people of Bushenyi.

Strategy

The plan shall adopt Public, Private and People partnership (PPPP) in the delivery of services to the affected population.

2.5 Background to the District Local Action Plan (LAP)

From consultations with stakeholders, the most common forms of gender based violence in Bushenyi district include sexual violence, domestic violence, defilement, battering especially of women and girls, as well as economic violence. The main causes of gender based violence include drug abuse, cultural beliefs and practices and poverty.

According to the cases reported to the police, between June 2012 and July 2013 alone, the district Police station registered a total of 134 cases of domestic violence, 68 cases of defilement and 11 cases of rape¹. On average 40 cases of defilement are recorded every three months by the Probation and Social Welfare Office and an assault case on a daily basis. At least 10 people report cases of domestic violence to the Community Development Office on a weekly basis, a case of rape, murder, arson and child neglect each week. It is important to note that while such numbers of cases are reported, the majority of cases are not reported especially in the rural areas.

Gender based violence is a violation of human rights which promotes stereotyping of gender roles in society which affects human dignity and in the long run undermines development. The district therefore needs an action plan to create a platform for awareness raising among community members and capacity building for duty bearers involved in addressing GBV. The action plan is also important for coordination of GBV interventions, proper planning and budgeting, implementation, monitoring and evaluating impact.

The Center for Women in Governance (CEWIGO) informed by the annual Civil Society monitoring of the implementation of UNSCR 1325 & 1820 and the Goma Declaration of the States of the Great Lakes Region and the public accountability project geared towards holding leaders accountable for improved public service delivery in health and primary education designed a project meant to facilitate the design of strategies that promote women's peace and human security in the district.

CEWIGO designed a capacity building action that would deepen the understanding and application of Bushenyi District of the Uganda Action Plan (NAP) for UNSCR 1325&1820 and the Goma Declaration. CEWIGO had already successfully piloted Local Action Plan development with Dokolo District Local Government and therefore rolling out the intervention meant that Bushenyi district would be the second district in Uganda to have a LAP .

Bushenyi District was selected because of the passion of the district leadership on issues of women's peace and human security and demonstrable commitment to gender equality.

Chapter Three: Contextual Analysis

Violence against women is the most pervasive yet least recognized human rights violation in the world. It's also a profound health problem, sapping women's energy, compromising their physical health, and eroding their self-esteem. In addition to causing injury, violence increases women's long-term risk of a number of other health problems, including chronic pain, physical disability (Heise et al. 2002)²

USAID Strategy to Prevent and Respond to Gender-Based Violence Globally defines "gender-based violence" as violence that is directed at an individual based on his or her biological sex, gender identity, or perceived adherence to socially defined norms of masculinity and femininity. It includes physical, sexual, and psychological abuse; threats; coercion; arbitrary deprivation of liberty; and economic deprivation, whether occurring in public or private life. Gender-based violence can include female infanticide; child sexual abuse; sex trafficking and forced labor; sexual coercion and abuse; neglect; domestic violence; elder abuse; and harmful traditional practices such as early and forced marriage, "honor" killings, and female genital mutilation/cutting

Gender based violence violates human rights and presents a significant public health challenge with civic, social, political, and economic consequences for individuals, communities and societies as whole. Different forms of GBV cause physical and mental harm, limit access to education, incur medical and legal costs; reduce productivity, and lower income. Gender-based violence undermines the safety, dignity, health, and human rights of the millions of individuals who experience it, and the public health, economic well-being, and security of nations.

GBV is a global pandemic that is inflicted upon men, women and children. However, women and girls are the most at risk and most affected by gender-based violence. An estimated one in three women worldwide has been beaten, coerced into sex, or otherwise abused in her lifetime. Studies carried out in 36 countries indicates that between 10 and 60% of women who have ever been married or partnered have experienced at least one incident of physical violence from a current or former intimate partner (Heise et al. 2002)

In Uganda, children and women experience daily acts of violence at an alarming rate in homes, schools, and communities. Domestic beatings, physical and sexual abuse, and rape or defilement are daily realities that are robbing children and women of their rights and putting their lives at risk. Children in particular suffer abusive power relationships, corporal punishment as a method of discipline, and child marriage – each a form of violence that is accepted in some corners of Ugandan society. In Uganda, as in other countries, traditions are often used to justify violent acts (UNICEF 2010).

Gender plays an important role in patterns of violence. A lack of options for a girl living in a household means she becomes a burden, a factor contributing to forced early marriage. A woman who is poor and has little options for attaining financial security, or has no access to natural resources, including ownership of land, can be stuck in a life of dependence and at increased risk of gender-based violence (UNICEF 2010)³.

The most vulnerable of Uganda's society– youth living on the streets, children who are orphaned, child labourers, or child brides, and poor women, for instance – are prone to experiencing violence and exploitation. It's estimated that Uganda has nearly 7.5 million children and youth living in vulnerable situations, and therefore those many millions of Uganda's future are at risk of having their rights stripped and their lives put at risk (UNICEF 2004).

² Heise et al. 2002 a global overview of gender-based violence international federation of gynecology and obstetrics. Elsevier science Ireland ltd

³ Unicef 2010, a violence free Uganda, equity, justice, rights, and opportunity for children and women united nations children's fund (Unicef), Kampala, Uganda

In addition Gender Based Violence is also a major development impediment in Bushenyi district mainly arises out of household poverty, negative attitudes towards women, unbalanced power relations between men and women, unequal access to ownership and control of resources, cultural belief, and illiteracy, among others.

This in the long run results into low esteem in women, low productivity, Psychological trauma and its effects like STD infections such as HIV/AIDS, denial of sexual and reproductive health rights, death, divorce, unfaithfulness, inferiority complex, child neglect, and school dropouts.

In addressing gender based violence, there is a need to strengthen the existing systems like Uganda police, lower local councils, Sub county Orphans and Vulnerable Children(OVC) coordination committees, District OVC coordination committee, the community development offices and Probation office among others, so that they are empowered to play their roles as the children's act cap 59.

There is need for the local government to network and link with other development partners, improve coordination, share the available resources for sustainable GBV solutions.

In providing solutions to gender based violence, the District is in the process of formulating two ordinances that is maternal and neo-natal health ordinance, UPE and USE ordinance and had earlier passed a drug abuse ordinance. The ordinances of maternal and neo-natal health, UPE and USE were presented in the council and they are still within the formulation process.

The Bushenyi district Community Development Office mandated to champion the cause for the vulnerable, has continued to sensitize communities on issues of gender based violence, child abuse, child labor, early marriages, and school dropout and advocated for strengthened community systems. The district conducts coordination meeting of DOVC and SOVC with departmental heads, stakeholders and this needs to incorporate and embrace GBV initiatives.

3.1 Legal and Policy Framework

Uganda has several national gender responsive laws and policies in place and is party to regional and international legal policy frame works that recognize that all human beings have guaranteed Human Rights and that the vulnerable groups should be protected from all Forms of violence and Discrimination. Some of these instruments are:

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR), 1948

The UDHR forms the basis of Uganda's Constitution. The declaration considers the various categories of rights such as civil and political rights, economic social and cultural rights in a holistic nature.

The Declaration in Article 1 recognizes that All human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights and Article 25 (2) that motherhood and childhood are entitled to special care and assistance.

The Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW), 1979

The main objective of this convention is to protect women and girls from all forms of discrimination. Article I defines discrimination against women as any distinction, exclusion or restrictions made on the basis of sex which has the effect or purpose of impairing, nullifying the recognition, enjoyment or exercise by women irrespective of their marital status on the basis of equality of man and women, of human rights and fundamental freedom in the political, economic, cultural, civil or any other forms. Articles 2 to 16 call on state parties (government) to put in place policies and legislative measures prohibiting all forms of discriminations against women for the removal of economic, social and cultural impediments.

The Beijing Platform for Action, 1995

The Beijing Platform for Action provides critical areas of concern in which governments, the international community and civil society, including Non-Governmental Organizations and the private sector, are called upon to take strategic actions to address inequality between men and women in the sharing of power and decision-making at all levels.

The United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325, 2000

UNSCR 1325 calls for the protection of women from GBV, increasing women's participation in peace building and conflict resolution, and mainstreaming of gender concerns in the UN peace mechanisms and efforts. The resolution urges member states to increase their voluntary financial, technical and logistical support for gender-sensitive training efforts. It calls on all parties to armed conflict to take special measures to protect women and girls from GBV particularly rape and other forms of sexual abuse against women and girls.

The United Nations Security Council 1820, 2008

The UNSCR 1820 was adopted to fill gaps in UNSCR 1325. UNSCR 1820 realizes that sexual violence can significantly exacerbate the situation of armed conflict and impede the restoration of international peace and security. UNSCR 1820 calls for immediate and complete halt to acts of sexual violence against civilians in conflict zones. The resolution re-emphasizes the UN commitment to the Beijing Platform for Action where governments, international and regional organizations were urged to identify and condemn rape as a deliberate instrument of war and ethnic cleansing and other forms of inhumane and degrading treatment against women and girls. Rape is a war crime and is a crime against humanity, an act of genocide thus UNSCR 1820 demands that parties involved in conflict take appropriate measures to protect civilians, including women and girls from all forms of sexual violence.

The United Nations Security Council Resolution 1888, 2009

Security Council Resolution 1888 urges Member states to implement strategies to halt the use of sexual violence as a tactic of war. Resolution 1888 mainly reinforces resolution 1820 by giving the international community tools to develop concrete and practical measures at the country level.

The United Nations Security Council Resolution 1889, 2009

The Security Council reaffirmed its primary responsibility under the Charter for the maintenance of international peace and security and reiterated the need for the full, equal and effective participation of women at all stages of peace processes given their vital role in the prevention and resolution of conflict and peace building.

The Goma Declaration, 2008

The Goma Declaration of the States of the Great Lakes Region recognizes that sexual violence is a threat to regional peace and security, a major propagator of HIV/AIDS and thus a threat to economic development.

The Protocol to the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights on the Rights of Women in Africa (Maputo Protocol), 2003

The Maputo Protocol addresses the rights of women and girls in general. Article 2(1) states that States

Parties shall combat all forms of discrimination against women through appropriate legislative, institutional and other measures including integrating a gender perspective in their policy decisions, legislation, development plans, programmes and activities and in all other spheres of life;

The Solemn Declaration on Gender Equality in Africa, 2004

Heads of states of government of the African union meeting in Addis-Ababa reaffirmed their commitment to the principle of gender equality as enshrined in Article 4(1) of the Constitutive Act of the African Union. The major challenges and obstacles to gender equality faced by girls and women to address according to the declaration include the high incidences of HIV/AIDS, conflict, poverty, harmful traditional practices, violence against women, women's exclusion from politics and decision making and literacy and limited access to girls education.

The Kampala Declaration of Heads of States and Governments of the Great Lakes Region on Sexual and Gender Based Violence, 2011

The ICGLR 4th ordinary summit of the Heads of State and Government and a Special Session on Sexual Gender Based Violence in the region was held in Kampala, Uganda December 2011 to strategize on how to prevent, end impunity and provide assistance to victims of Sexual Gender Based Violence.

The 1995 Constitution of the Republic of Uganda, 1995

The 1995 Constitution of the Republic of Uganda is the supreme law of the land that provides for the fundamental human rights for all its citizens. Specifically, Chapter four is dedicated for protection and promotion of fundamental and other human rights and freedoms with a number of specific Articles that spell out women's rights.

The Children Act, 1997

The Act provides for care, protection and maintenance of children; to provide for local authority support for children; to establish a family and children court; to make provision for children charged with offences and for other connected purposes. Article 10 (1 a) provides that it is the general duty of every local government council from the village to the district level to safeguard and promote the welfare of children within its area.

The Uganda Gender Policy, 2007

The revised gender policy aims at guiding all levels of planning, resource mobilization and implementation of development programs with a gender perspective. The emphasis on gender is based on the recognition that "gender" is a development concept useful in identifying and understanding the social roles and relations of women and men of all ages, and how these impact on development. According to the Policy, all institutions in Uganda are obliged to mainstream gender in their programs.

The Equal Opportunities Commission Act, 2007

The Act is in line with Article 32 (3) and (4) of the Constitution of Uganda to eliminate discrimination and inequalities against individuals or groups on grounds of sex, gender, age, color, race, ethnic origin, tribe, birth, creed, health status, disability, social and economic standing or political opinion. According to the Act, equal opportunities means having the same treatment or consideration in the enjoyment of rights and freedoms, attainment of access to social services, education, employment, and physical environment or participation in social, cultural and political activities regardless of sex, age, race and other differences.

The Penal Code (Amendment Act), 2007

Article 129 (1) of chapter 120 of the Act provides that any person, who performs a sexual act with another person who is below the age of 18 years, commits a felony known as defilement and is on conviction, liable to life imprisonment". It also provides for the offence of aggravated defilement which makes one on conviction by the High Court liable to suffer death. Aggravated defilement according to the Act is where the victim of defilement is below 14 years, the offender is infected with HIV, the offender is a parent or guardian or a person in authority, where the victim is disabled or the offender is a serial offender

The Domestic Violence Act, 2010

According to the Act, domestic violence constitutes any act or omission of a perpetrator which harms, endangers the health, safety or general wellbeing of the victim. Domestic violence takes different forms which includes physical, economic, emotional and sexual abuse. This form of violence also encompasses harassment, coercion and threats.

The Uganda Action Plan (NAP) for UNSCR 1325, 1820 and the Goma Declaration, 2011

The MGLSD in 2008 developed the NAP that was revised in 2011 to guide implementation of UNSCR 1325 & 1820 and the Goma Declaration and as a mechanism for strengthening women's participation and involvement in the promotion of peace and security within the context of conflict prevention and resolution, eradicating Sexual Violence and ending impunity in conflict prone situations.

3.2 Interventions by the District and Partners so far

Strengthening Decentralization for Sustainability (SDS)

SDS is one of the partners that have built the capacity of local government staff to carry out their duties efficiently and effectively in regard to community sensitization, conducting social clinics, facilitating SOVCC'S and DOVCC's. Health workers were recruited and this led to increased health service coverage.

CEWIGO coordinates the Coalition for Action (COACT) 1325 in monitoring of the implementation of UNSCR 1325 & 1820 and the Goma Declaration.

Western Ankole Civil society Forum (WASCOF)

WASCOF is an umbrella for subscribed civil society organization advocating, assessing the validity of programs implemented both by the government and CSOs in Bushenyi towards the people.

3.3 Challenges in Addressing GBV

Much as the district has tried to put some measures in place to address GBV such as the establishment of institutional frameworks with community based offices in all the 9 sub counties and 3 community development officers in the Division of Ishaka Bushenyi Municipality to fight against GBV, response and mitigation of GBV related cases is still low.

Linking gender and violence to development is often seen as western idea by most communities and individuals in Uganda. In Bushenyi district, many cases of GBV remain invisible because it is seen as a taboo to report or talk about gender based violence. Efforts to prevent GBV are not always understood as contributing to the protection or upholding of human rights. The situation is made worse by the low levels of awareness of gender relations and how they can be improved in the community for peaceful co-existence.

The district still faces a couple of challenges in GBV prevention and response at both institutional and community levels as outline below:

Institutional level challenges

- Political interference influences the handling of GBV cases at various levels of governance
- Inadequate funding for GBV programmes
- Low capacity of staff directly responsible for addressing GBV to mobilize resources to support responsive interventions.

- Lack of ordinances and bylaws that directly address GBV
- Lack of adequate information on laws and policies that promote gender equality among service providers
- Inadequate mobilization and sensitization of communities limits implementation of existing laws and policies.
- Corruption especially among the police sabotages access to justice for GBV survivors
- Conflict of interest especially when the perpetrators are known to those in positions of power or duty bearers.
- Inadequate staffing especially the in the Child and Family Protection Unit of the Police and the Community Development Office at sub county level tends to delay the process
- Poor coordination among GBV actors that limits planning, integration and service delivery for GBV programmes.
- Lack of adequate resources by the police to facilitate response, follow up, photocopying of PF3, transport for witnesses to courts of law and feeding of GBV-related suspects.
- Poor record keeping and lack of modern information storage systems. The district lacks a GBV data base to guide planning and implementation of GBV programmes.

Challenges at community level

- Ignorance on roles and responsibilities, legal procedures and reporting and follow up structures. This partly leads to loss of interest in cases and case withdrawal by complainants and their relatives.
- Relatives of GBV survivors especially of defilement cases tend to negotiate for cash and other valuables with the perpetrators due to poverty at the expense of justice for the survivors.
- Lack of adequate evidence due low registration of births. In cases of defilement, the age of children becomes very difficult to prove without genuine birth certificates and witnesses take advantage of this to allege that the victim is above 18 years.

- Low level of education among the complainants and witnesses alike leads to lack of confidence and inability to articulate their issues coherently when recording statements at the police station
- Promiscuity among married couples leading teenage pregnancy, STDs including HIV/AIDS. This increases the levels of domestic violence especially in cases where one of the spouses is discordant.
- Family neglect is also an issue that leads to families' lack of access to basic needs for children including food and school fees. Young girls who feel neglected at home will either turn to older men for money and gifts in exchange for sex. others will be forced to drop out of school to work as house girls where they are often exploited.
- General limited understanding of rights and roles among women, men and children. This makes communities and especially women and girls to accept abuse.
- Limited productive resources including land for growing both food and cash crops, or money for income generating activities.
- Cultural beliefs and norms preserve the dominance of the male while women are treated as subordinate human beings who cannot be trusted with leadership and decision making responsibilities and positions.
- Low levels of education among women, mainly due the high rate of school dropout for girls because they are seen as a source of wealth when exchanged for bride price.

Strategy Objective 3: The level of financing to all sectors mainstreaming GBV in Bushenyi district increased by 5 %.

Strategy 1: Prioritize GBV for funding in the district work plans and budgets

This strategy involves the review and integration of LAP activities in the district development plans and increasing the financial resource base for implementation of GBV interventions.

Quality Assurance

The LAP is a district-based undertaking where the identified activities within the program mandate are implemented in collaboration with all LG stakeholders technical, political and other Implementing Partners. However, there is already a set of performance based indicators within the district which have to be well aligned with the district agreed on performance indicators.

In this regard, the District has developed a Monitoring and Evaluation Plan which stipulates the activities to be carried out; the expected outputs, indicators, and data source. Most of the indicators will be tracked on a quarterly basis. A quarterly report against the agreed activities and performance indicators will be prepared by the GBV task force in the district to be reviewed by TPC and DEC. Quality shall be ensured through technical support supervision of the service providers and data quality checks. Feedback from such visits will be done to enable continuous improvement. The information collected through support supervision and monitoring shall be discussed by the District implementation team to inform planning and decision making. Where adjustments are needed, the district shall inform and seek input from CEWIGO and other implementing partners. The intended outputs as stated in the work plan, will be a very important monitoring tool in addition to the performance framework that includes both the Performance Based Financing and Non-Performance Based Financing indicators
